the natural order of things

This is a round in the tuning of and the rhythm of the harmonic series like

Henry Cowell suggested that composers try even if some of the notes are in slightly different tunings.

Like the seventh partial or the ninth which is really close to equal temperament.

The big problem of course is the eleventh partial which is neither a tritone nor a perfect fourth but something in between them.